$250,000 More Annually Slated For Toll Bridge

State Rep. Walter James Phillips of Hancock county said approximately $250,000 annually from surplus seawall funds of the three coastal counties will be used to retire bonds on the Bay St. Louis toll bridge.

Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson ruled last week, after the motor vehicle comptroller and lawmakers from Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties requested clarification of a law enacted during the 1956 legislature, that surplus seawall funds must be used to retire the bonds of the Bay St. Louis and Pascagoula toll bridges.

State Reps. Phillips and Karl Weisenburg, of Jackson county, estimated more than $500,000 a year in surplus funds would be applied to the 16 million dollars in bonds still outstanding on the two bridges.

Seawall funds are derived from a 3/4 cent a gallon gasoline tax. The Highway Department returns to each of the three coastal counties to build the seawall as protection for roads and highways against erosion by the sea.

The attorney general's opinion said the 1956 law contains two main points:

1. The state highway commission must approve proposed road protection projects before any additional bonds may be issued.
2. Surplus from the seawall funds should be used to retire bonds on the two toll bridges.

"The law is clear," Patterson said. "It permits future bond issues with paramount retirement rights with seawall funds and it authorizes use of the surplus for retirement of the toll bridge bonds."

DRAFT LAWS TOLD TO STUDENTS AT BAY HIGH, KILN

Major Sheel H. Weeks and Major C. J. Chalder, of the state headquarters of Selective Service spoke to boys students of Bay High and Kiln schools recently and explained how the selective service law will affect high school students of today.

In the talks these officers brought out that when Congress passed the Act they specifically authorized the deferment of high school students until they graduate or until they reach twenty years of age, whichever is sooner, so long as they satisfactorily pursue their course of instruction at high school, and they urged all boys to finish high school.

Both Major Weeks and Major Chalder stated that every student who wishes to go to college was entitled to certain deferments, provided he made the required scholastic standings.

The requirement of every man registering when he reaches age eighteen was stressed and the fact that if he "failed to do so" he was subject to immediate induction, or else to fine or imprisonment, or both, was also pointed out in a statement from the state headquarters.

A reserve program where a young man may go into the Reserve or National Guard before he is eighteen and one-half years old, and fulfill his service was also explained.

Each officer paid especial tribute to the local board in Hancock county, composed of "public-spirited citizens serving without compensation, namely Leo W. Seal, Ed. J. Arceneaux and Laurence Dickson, and to the clerk, Mrs. Agnes M. Zengaring."

"These citizens are rendering a patriotic service in our national defense program," they stated.

Four Free On $2000

Four club operators arrested on illegal possession of liquor charges following raids by National Guardsmen in north Hancock county last week are slated for a hearing Jan. 12 before Beat Two justice of the Peace C. W. Brunson.

Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said W. R. Whitfield, Richard Kennedy and Eli Alsobrook were released on $500 bond each from the county jail following the raid. Three liquor establishments near the Hancock-Pearl River county line were hit hard and quickly by a five-man National Guard team following orders from Gov. J. P. Coleman.

Seized at the You-All Club, a drive-in about 150 yards from the county line operated by Whitfield, were two cases of assorted whiskey, gin, and vodka and one and a half cases of wine. At Kennedy's Place, also known as Half-Way Cafe, located 200 yards south of the You-All Club, Guardsmen seized three cases of assorted whiskey and gin and 14 cases of wine. The club is operated by Richard and Rena Kennedy.

At the County Line Club, also called Whispering Pines, about two-tenths of a mile south of the county line, eight cases of assorted whiskey, gin and vodka were seized along with nine cases of wine. The club is operated by Eli Alsobrook, Beat Two constable until January.

Atty. Gen. W. P. Wilson said in Jackson no gambling equipment was found at the three places. The four persons were charged with possession of whiskey under Mississippi's prohibition law which Gov. Coleman has repeatedly said will be stringently enforced.

Episcopal Day School Presents Yule Program

The students of Christ Episcopal Day School presented their annual Christmas pageant in the auditorium of the school Friday evening in the presence of a large number of parents, friends and relatives.

The program, divided into five parts, presented the Annunciation, The Nativity, The Worship of Shepherds and Angels, The Worship of the Wise Men, and the Worship of Today.

The stage was set in a manger in Bethlehem with the creche holding the infant Jesus centering the setting. Jane Langstrand portrayed Mary, Zach Butterworth, Joseph, and Bob Hamilton, the Angel Gabriel. A backdrop of heavenly blue covered with stars held the Star of Bethlehem.

"Hark, The Herald Angels Sing" announced the coming birth of the Saviour and was followed by the choral reading of Luke 1, 26-34; Bob Hamilton, as the Angel Gabriel, sang a solo, "The Angel's Message."

The Nativity was explained by a choral reading from Luke and the carole "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem." The kindergarten students wearing long white robes and carrying candles, entered the auditorium, singing "Away In A Manger."

Shepherds and Angels came to worship the newly born Saviour, singing "The First Noel." Kay Dorich and Toni White sang a solo, "Mary's Baby Boy" and students of the first and second grades sang "Bethlehem Lullaby."

Ted Gussman, Bill Bassett, and Glenn Rose, as the Three Wise Men, sang "We Three Kings," as they entered with gifts of gold, frankincense and myrror.

Worship of Today ended the program with a group of Christmas carols and the audience joining in, "O Come All Ye Faithful, and Silent Night." The Rev. Charles F. Johnson pronounced the benediction.

Following the program, members of the Parent Teacher Association served refreshments of iced drinks and cookies from a brightly decorated table.

Youths Set 'Bomb' Here

A homemade "bomb" placed on a side porch of St. Stanislaus Saturday night exploded and shattered 34 windows, sent pieces of brick flying and caused $150 damage.

Over 125 silver kings -- one inch firecrackers -- were used by six youths to make the bomb. The powder was placed in a tin can, then sealed with wax and placed on a porch facing Union St.

Two attempts were made at lighting the stem with the second try resulting in an "earbursting" noise.

The incident occurred around 10:30 p. m., said Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner, who also reported that all the youths were apprehended.

CHRISTMAS DISH

Residents of the Hancock County jail Christmas Day had their own celebration.

Fried chicken, french fried potatoes, green peas, cranberry sauce and cole slaw were the main attractions on the menu.

CHUCK WAGNER, extreme left, snares the "flying football" at the start of the second period and proved instrumental in the White's final half rally that resulted in a 13-12 victory in the annual Mustard Bowl at the Christ Episcopal Day School.

Thank You!

Last week's issue of the ECHO was our first issue with the new offset printing plant which is now printing our paper. It was also the first paper in our new building on Second Street. It was a new experience for our crew, most of whom had never seen the new type of equipment, much less used it.

However, we felt proud of our initial efforts and we have received numerous calls congratulating us on the new paper. For this we are truly grateful and wish to publicly thank those who have called us.

In order to give our staff a short vacation we had originally agreed not to publish a paper this week, but the staff, in order to gain more experience with the new equipment, unanimously voted to publish a 4-page token issue this week.

Send it in

In your new paper we are striving to set up special pages for news; for instance, a women's page, etc. We do want to give full coverage to all the local news and happenings in each local organization. To give this coverage we urge each organization to appoint or designate some member of its group to send that news to us. You will have cause to fuss if you give it to us and it is not used, but if you don't send it in or call us about it, then blame should be shouldered by you and your organization. A newspaper also has to set a deadline for the news to come in, so check with us and try to help your organization and us by getting it to us on time. Thank you.

down deeper...
things are looking UP

Today, drilling bits bore deeper as the search in Mississippi for oil and gas extends to new horizons. Attention focused on the lower cretaceous strata just three years ago with discovery of oil at 12,000 feet in Jasper County. In 1956 important findings thru deep drilling have been made... encouraging exploration of lower levels, despite financial risk involved.

For example, drilling a typical 10,000-foot well requires a complete rig costing over $300,000; 10,000, 12,000 feet steel drill pipe; 12,000 feet steel casing; 25 to 100 drilling bits; 5 reamers; 500-1000 tons of drilling mud additives; 2,000-5,000 sacks of cement; 48,000 barrels water; 3,000 barrels fuel oil. And as drilling goes deeper, more materials are required.

Too, there's the manpower item. Some 125 skilled men are needed: 20 to 30 working full-time; the rest part-time.

In the state, the oil and gas industry is not a single big company, but rather a "family" made up of independent oil operators, small companies working together with major companies, individually and collectively, investing talent, initiative and savings to find oil and gas.

Also, the oil and gas industry contributes substantially to Mississippi's economy. In 1956 its payroll has totaled $20,000,000; royalties paid, $17,000,000 (to 25,000 royalty holders); rentals, $12,000,000; taxes, $25,000,000.

Mississippians in the oil industry will continue to put their money, ability and faith into the never-ending search for oil - so long as they are allowed a fair return on the investment and involved risk.

So it will be for the good of the state as well as the industry itself... the development of the horizons deeper down.
